An Essay on ENVY and DETRACTION.

Is there a Wretch so vile, so base, so low,
A Slave to Envy and Detraction too;
Whose mean Malevolence, in dark Disguise,
The Man that never injur'd him belies;
Whose Actions, bad and good, two Motives guide,
The Serpent's Malice, and the Coxcomb's Pride?

LANGHORNE.

ENVY, in my Opinion, is one of the most hateful Passions that can enter into the Composition of Man.—An envious Mind can never know true Happiness; it preys upon itself, and is its own Tormentor. Many very learned Men have made this Passion the Subject of their Contemplation, and I find that it is by them all equally stigmatized and condemned: How absurd then is it for any one to give Encouragement to it! How foolish to idolize a Passion that kills and destroys him!—When we see a Serpent, we endeavour to avoid him—a Lion, we fly from him; being conscious, that if either seizes us, instant and inevitable Death will be the Consequence: Yet we can act under the Government of a Passion that preys more insensibly, though not less certain to destroy.

Most other Propensities promise some good to the Possessor; but THIS, in short annihilates every Hope, and places every Prospect in such a dark and obscure Manner, that the Reality is never perceivable.—Its Tendency to depreciate every meritorious Action, is not one of the least of its Talents: An envious Man can never see another rise in the Favour and good Opinion of the World, or be blessed with any of the radiant Smiles of Fortune, without making many sly and insidious Attempts to prejudice the exalted and beloved Person.

Sir Francis Bacon says, some have been so curious, as to remark the Times and Seasons when the Stroke of an envious Eye is most effectually pernicious, and have observed, that it has been when the Person envied has been in the Circumstance of Glory and Triumph. How many Shifts and Subterfuges will it adopt to accomplish its desired End? How many Ways and Methods invent to undermine the Superstructure, that the Fabric may fall to the Ground, and be buried in Oblivion? And it is on the Failure of any of these Attempts, that the envious Spirit feels its own Torment; for being unable to vent its Passion on others, with the Success it wished, it naturally coils on itself, and brings with it its never-failing Attendants, Remorse, Anguish, and Despair.

The envious Man is in Pain upon all Occasions which ought to give him Pleasure.—The Relish of his Life is inverted, and the Objects which administer Delight to those who are exempt from this Passion, give the quickest Pangs to Persons who are subject to it.—All the Perfections of their Fellow Creatures, are odious and disgustful.—Youth, Beauty, Valour, and Wisdom, are Provocations of their Displeasure. What a wretched and apostate State is this! To be offended with Excellence, and to hate a Man for being possessed of Virtues for which the major Part of Mankind approves him! The Condition of the envious Man is the emphatically miserable—he is not only incapable of rejoicing in another's Merit or Success, but lives in a World wherein all Mankind are in a Plot against his Quiet, by studying their own Happiness and Advantage.

I have heard of a Man, who was possessed of this Passion to such a violent Degree, that he could never see, or be told, of any Person's Arrival to any sudden or unexpected good Fortune, without being immediately seized with a Fit of Sickness, that very frequently threatened Death; and it was not till after he had heard of another Man's Failure in any Enterprize, the Loss of one of his best Friends, or being declared a Bankrupt in the Gazette, that he felt any Relief from the Severity of his Disorder: Yet this Man was the last to acknowledge his Fault, or to believe the Cause of it.—His Invention was always supplying him with some Reasons or other to elude the Force of their Arguments, and to turn the Scale in his own Favour.—Was it possible for this Man to enjoy Happiness? Was it possible for him, with Thoughts so contracted and selfish, to attend to any Thing laudable or praise-worthy? Could he be of any Benefit and Advantage to Society, his Family, or his Friends?—To Society, he was a useless Member—and to his Family and Friends, an unsociable, uninstructive Companion.—He felt a Passion within him that incessantly disturbed his Repose—that greatly embittered every Felicity, and rendered all his undertakings of little or no Consequence to himself or others.

The almost universal Detestation with which Men of this Stamp are treated by all the World—the abhorred Light in which most People view them, and the frequent sharp and satirical Reflections that are thrown upon their Characters, I should think were sufficient to deter any Being from the Love and Practice of it: But Argument, nor even Detestation, will avail any Thing with some People, to persuade them to conquer their Passions, and to move out of the Road that leads immediately to Misery. Divines may preach up Self-denial—Philosophers may represent the Necessity of subduing the Passions, in Order to obtain Happiness. They may as well preach to the Winds and Waves, as to some of the human Species, who are so inflexibly bent on the Pursuit of their own Desires, and submit themselves so much to their Guidance and Direction, that, were inevitable Ruin, in all its black Array, to stare them full in the Face, it would not deter them from their Progress, or work a Revolution in their Intentions.

Were we to trace this Passion through all its Turnings and Windings, I don't doubt, but we should find it the Source of most others. Malice, Slander, Ill-will, Suspicion and Hatred, evidently claim their Existence from it; even Covetousness, Rapacity, Self-love, and almost every other black and contracted Propensity, owe their Birth to Envy. It is, in short, the Fountain of all Evil, and the Spring of every wicked Desire.

Having considered Envy, in Respect to ourselves, I will now consider it, and its Offspring, Detraction, in Reference to Mankind.

How many Men have been ruined by the Envy or Malice of others? How many unhappy Families brought to immediate and irretrievable Want, by the Slanders of their Neighbours? How many Reputations has it blasted and destroyed? And how many has it drove to seek a Refuge in the Grave? It is unspeakable the Misery it has occasioned in the World!

There is a Lust in Man no Charm can tame,
Of loudly publishing his Neighbour's Name;
On Eagle's Wings immortal Scandals fly,
While virtuous Actions are but born, and die.

Were an Angel to come upon Earth in the Shape of a Mortal, I dare engage there are many who would attempt to traduce her Reputation, and, like another Momus, find a Flaw in her angelic Perfections. The brightest Endowments of Mind and Body, are most commonly the Subjects of greatest Disputation; 'tis on these that Detraction fixes its Sting, and here endeavours to throw all its Venom. The fairest Characters are its Prey; it lives on the Spoils of Innocence, and knows no Pleasure but in its Destruction.

Who would rob a Hermit of his Weeds,
His few Books, or his Beads, or Maple Dish,
Or do his grey Heirs any Violence?
But Beauty, like the fair Hesperian Tree;
Laden with blooming Gold, had need the Guard
Of Dragon Watch, with unchanted Eye,
To save her Blossoms, and defend her Fruit,
From the foul Breath of bold Detraction.

MILTON.

I have been told, that a Set of Men have frequented Taverns, with the illiberal Intention of taking down the Names of such as resorted to them, with a particular Account of their Entertainment and Manner of Behaviour, in order, afterwards, to expose them in private Company. These Men must, certainly, have been possessed of very narrow and circumscribed Abilities, or they never would have taken so mean and scandalous a Method to supply themselves with Conversation: They must have been as dull and insignificant the following Day, as a total Absence of Ideas could possibly make them, unless the Slander of the Night supplied them with any Thing new or surprising, to exercise their defamatory Talent upon. 'Tis such Men as these that occasion a great Part of the Misery we feel—that distract the Repose of Families—and ruin the Reputation of Youth; the Destruction of an innocent Character is their Delight.—Like those merciless Wretches, who, deaf to the Calls of Humanity, wantonly destroy the unhappy Creatures who happen to escape being swallowed by the Waves, in the Time of Shipwreck, that they may, with the greater Impunity, take Possession of their Riches and Effects.

Indeed, Envy and Detraction will pursue a Man through every Stage of Life, and he may be accounted most happy, whose Endeavours to avoid both, are crowned with the most Success. However, it is not the greatest Prudence or Circumspection under the Sun, that can ward against it: It is not the wisest Course that can avoid it. Prudence here finds herself undermined, and Wisdom is over-powered in the unequal Conflict: Learning, in this Case, will not at all Times befriend us; we frequently find it in the Power of the most illiterate to disturb our Tranquility, and by one slanderous and defamatory Expression, to render the Remnant of our Days a Scene of Trouble and Anxiety:

Slander, the worst of Poisons, ever finds,
An easy Entrance in ignoble Minds.

Montaigne makes mention, in one of his Essays, of a Gentleman of his Country, much afflicted with the Gout, who being advised by his Physicians, to abstain from salt Meats, asked what else they would give him to quarrel with in the Extremity of his Fits; for that he imagined, cursing one Minute the Bologne Sausages, and another the dried Tongues he had eaten, was some Mitigation of his Torment.

If all Men, when they are either out of Health, or out of Humour, would vent their Rage after the Manner of this Frenchman, the World, I am certain, would be a much more tranquil one than we see it at present. But dried Tongues and Sausages have no Feeling of our Displeasure, therefore, we receive it from one another; and he that can wound his Neighbour in his Fame, or sow the Seeds of Discord in his Family, derives Happiness to himself.

A very ingenious Man long ago observed, "That since we found it impossible to live without Desires, we should make it our Study to bring them under a proper Regulation; and, for this Purpose, we should know their Source, in order to stifle, in their Birth, all those that might be either hurtful to ourselves or others."

We are taught, by God himself, "to do by others as we would wish to be done by;" and, in many Places of Scripture, directed to stifle Envy, Hatred, Malice, and every other rapacious Passion, that can, in any Respect, effect or destroy the Happiness of our Neighbour. Envy and Defamation are strictly forbidden, as including in their Nature, the Evil of all others. Why should we envy any Man his Possessions?—Why wish to enjoy them ourselves?—and, how still more vile it is, to defame the Character of an innocent Person, to take from him that immediate Jewel of his Soul," which Time cannot restore, nor is it in the Power of the Destroyer to make ample Recompence for.

Who steals my Purse, steals Trash; 'tis something, nothing;
'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been Slave to Thousands.
But he that filches from me my good Name,
Robs me of that which not enriches him,
And makes me poor indeed.

BOSTON, JUNE 15.

BY a letter from Nantucket we learn, that two whaling sloops were taken the beginning of May, off the bay of Matanza, by a brigantine and sloop under Spaniſh colours. They had each 150 barrels of oil on board.

We have advice from Rhode Iſland, that on Tueſday laſt, as his Majeſty's armed ſcooner Gaſpee, commanded by Lieutenant Duddingſton, with about 16 or 17 men, was going up Providence river, ſhe ran aſhore at high water on a point about 7 miles below that town; and that about two o'clock the next morning a number of men, (ſome of the depoſitions of the ſcooner's people ſay only about 50, others, perhaps more frightned than the reſt, make them 150) came along ſide of her in 5 or 6 boats; upon the firſt notice whereof the commander inſtantly got out of bed and came upon deck with a piſtol and a ſword, and fired the piſtol at the boats, which was returned by the diſcharge of another from them, when the ball went through his wriſt, as his hand was hanging down by his ſide, and lodged in his groin; the people in the boats immediately took poſſeſſion of the veſſel, without any further damage, (except a ſlight wound which one of the ſailors received by a ſtick) and bound the crew, and after dreſſing the Captain's wounds as well as they could, put them all on ſhore, they then ſet fire to the ſcooner, which, with all her ſtores, &c. were entirely conſumed.

We are told that the Captain of the ſcooner, after he was wounded and ſecured, deſired that his money and papers might be delivered him, the former was complied with, but the latter, with every thing elſe he had on board, were deſtroyed:——'Tis ſaid he is in a fair of recovery.

The Governor of Rhode-Iſland has iſſued a proclamation, offering a reward of One Hundred Pounds ſterling, for the diſcovery of the perſons concerned in this affair.

From Cumberland in Nova-Scotia, we have a melancholly account of the death of Thomas Colhoon, Eſq; of Hopewell, (formerly of Baltimore county in Maryland) together with his brother Mr. William Colhoon, and two other young men, the latter end of April laſt; who having been at a ſtone Quary, ſome few miles diſtance from their homes in a canow, it is preſumed were returning home with a number of grindſtones, being night, the wind pretty freſh, and the tide very rapid, it is ſuppoſed they overſet, and were all drowned, near two miles from the ſhore, as their bodies were all found two days after at that diſtance, ſome of them nearly buried in the land and mud. The elder Colhoon, (Thomas) has left a widow with one child and very near lying in again. The other two were unmarried.

JUNE 25.

The moſt barbarous murder and robbery perhaps ever heard of in this province was committed at Stockbridge, as near as can be gueſſed twenty days ago, on a traveller unknown here; the dead and naked body was found laſt Thurſday a few roods from the road with many marks of violence on it, much putrified and defaced, a parcel of old cloaths very poor lying near the corpſe, marks of blood in the bruſh where the body was drawn along out of the road, an axe-helve lying near the body bloody. Nothing can be found that is ſuppoſed to belong to the deceaſed but a valuable ſleeve-button, and as the button was never wore in the old ſhirt found among the cloaths, no doubt the aſſaſſin left that old cloathing of his own, and now wears the cloathing of the unhappy victim. Who the villain is and who the unhappy ſufferer is, as yet is wholly unknown: Time may diſcover and Juſtice will overtake the perpetrator of ſuch horrid crimes.

JUNE 29.

We hear that our Honourable Houſe of Commons have received a letter from Governor Tryon, in which he offers to divide the diſputed lands between the two Provinces, and thus to ſettle the line of diviſion between us.

We hear that the Honourable Board of Commiſſioners have appointed Capt. William Rhoades of this town, to be Gauger and Weigher for the port of Charles Town, South-Carolina.

JULY 2.

We are informed, that the INDIANS in "the only loyal Colony" (Rhode Iſland) as Lord Hillſborough ſtiles it, have returned like a dog to his vomit, and as a ſow to her wallowing in the mire; it is ſaid, that two cuſtom-houſe officers at Newport, went on board an inward-bound veſſel from the Weſt-Indies, and were pretty buſy, in their way, when unluckily ſome of theſe Savages came on board, bound to the cuſtom-houſe officers, and blacked them, then unloaded the veſſel, and after whipping their priſoners ſet them at liberty, and the next morning attempted to go off with the Sloop alſo; but were overtaken by the cuſtom-houſe boat and brought back again.

Quere, Whether eight or ten regiments, and ſix or more ſail of the line, may not ſoon be expected to quell ſuch a daring (if it had been in Boſton) rebellion!!!

We hear the following alteration is to be made with reſpect to the army in America, viz. at Quebec 8th or King's regiment, and 21ſt, or Royal North Britiſh; at Montreal 26th; at Three Rivers, and lower Poſts 52d; at Detroit and the upper Poſts 20th; at New-York two regiments of Fuziliers; and at Jamaica two battalions 60th, or Royal Americans.

The public may be aſſured upon the beſt authority, that the petition lately preſented to his Majeſty for an American Biſhop was rejected; it having been conſidered, in its true light, as the deſire of a few meddling prieſts, and not of the people.

JULY 6.

We are aſſured that the Honourable Houſe of Repreſentatives, by a majority of eighty-five out of one hundred and four members, did the laſt week paſs a number of decent and manly reſolves, reſpecting the Governor's having and receiving a ſupport independent of the General Aſſembly; a copy of which we have not yet received.

NEW-YORK, JUNE 15.

Lord William Campbell, and his Lady paſſed by here laſt Thurſday, in a ſcooner from South-Carolina, bound for Rhode-Iſland, but did not come aſhore, his lady being much indiſpoſed.

JUNE 22.

Laſt week two companies of the Royal regiment, of artillery, under the command of Col. James, marched from this city, to encamp on Hempſtead Plains for the ſummer ſeaſon.

By the Boſton papers we find, that his Excellency Governor Hutchinſon, has directed the Secretary to acquaint both Houſes reſpectively, that it was his pleaſure the Great and General Court be adjourned till Tueſday the 16th inſtant, then to meet at the Court Houſe in Boſton, which wa accordingly done.

JULY 9.

We hear from Cocksſuky, in Albany County, that on Friday the 3d inſtant, there fell at that place a moſt terrible ſhower of Hail, ſome of it being near the ſize of Geeſe eggs. The damage done by it is ſo great, that it is ſaid whole fields of graſs and corn are deſtroyed, and many farmers will have no harveſt this ſeaſon: Several calves, ſheep and hogs, were killed, and two Negroes who happened to be out in the ſtorm, were very much hurt.

A Sloop from Liverpoole arrived at Barbados laſt May, the Captain of which, being a man of veracity reported, that about 60 leagues E. by S. from that iſland he diſcovered a flat curled rock, a little above the ſurface of the water; that he hoiſted out his boat, went cloſe to it, but could find no bottom with a line of 90 fathoms.

PROVIDENCE, (Rhode-Iſland) JUNE 15.

Monday laſt a ſloop from New-York arrived at Newport, and after reporting her cargo at the cuſtom-houſe, was proceeding up the river on Tueſday. The Gaſpee armed ſcooner, then lying near Newport, immediately gave chace to the ſloop, crowding all the ſail ſhe could make, but the people on board not being acquainted with the river, at three o'clock in the afternoon ſhe ran on Namquit Point, near Pawtuxet. About twelve at night a great number of people in boats boarded the ſcooner, bound the crew, and ſent them aſhore, after which they ſet fire to the veſſel, and deſtroyed her. A piſtol was diſcharged by the Captain of the ſcooner, and a muſket or piſtol from one of the boats, by which the Captain was wounded, the ball paſſing through one of his arms, and lodging in the lower part of his belly. He was immediately taken to Pawtuxet, and we are told is in a fair way to recover.——To what a dreadful dilemma are the people reduced!—They muſt ſuffer themſelves to be plundered, or ——————.

We hear that one Dagget, belonging to the Vineyard, who had ſerved the above-mentioned ſcooner as a pilot, but at the time of her being deſtroyed was on board the Beaver ſloop of war, going aſhore a few days ſince at Narraganſet to a ſheep-ſhearing, was ſeized by the company, who cut off his hair, and performed on him the operation of ſhearing in ſuch a manner, that his ears and noſe were in imminent danger.

JULY 4.

Since our laſt Capt. John Peck arrived here from the Miſſiſippi river, with whom came paſſenger Joſeph Naſh, Eſq; of this town; by him we learn, that ſince the concluſion of the peace the French and Spaniards had ſeduced ſeven nations of Indians from the Engliſh, by means of medals, colours, and other preſents, and ſettled them on the weſtern banks of the Miſſiſippi; but that John Thomas, Eſq; Deputy-Superintendent of Indian affairs in that department has lately arrived there, and from his former acquaintance with the Indians, and the ſurpriſing influence he has over them, all the above nations have determined to return and ſettle on the Engliſh ſide of the river,—the warlike nation of the Arkanſas have determined to join the Chickeſaws, Shawaneſe and Cherokees, in a war againſt the Cickapoos, for killing ſome Engliſh ſettlers on the Ohio and Miſſiſippi.

We further learn, that an unhappy diſpute having lately ariſen between the Superintendent and Mr. Harris, a merchant's clerk at Fort Bute, on that river, they both drew their ſwords, when Mr. Harris was killed on the ſpot, and the Superintendent ſlightly wounded. He immediately delivered himſelf up, and was to take his trial at Penſacola.

A few days before Capt. Peck ſailed from New-Orleans, an ordinance was publiſhed by the Governor of Louiſiana, by order of his Catholic Majeſty, prohibiting the introduction of all ſorts of foreign cotton ſtuffs, or other ſtuffs mixed with cotton, under the penalty of ſuch goods being confiſcated, and of twenty bits for every yard of ſuch goods that ſhall be ſeized.—The like prohibition, we learn, will take place throughout his Catholic Majeſty's dominions.

ALBANY, JUNE 22.

We hear that Sir William Johnſton, has, after ſeveral meetings with the deputies from the Meſſiſagoes, who came to him on account of the murder of their people, at length obtained the ſtrongeſt aſſurances that they would not attempt to retaliate on any of his Majeſty's ſubjects, and that they appeared thoroughly ſatisfied: Whereupon he diſmiſſed them with very handſome preſents, and belts, &c. to the Chiefs of that nation.

Extract of a letter from a Gentleman in Orange county to his friend.

"I have nothing more to add, but that Mr. ——, run-away on Saturday, married on Sunday, went to goal on Monday, was tried on Tueſday, and cleared on Wedneſday laſt.—Sudden changes indeed and a variety of them."

PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 25.

The General Aſſembly of New Jerſey are to meet at Perth-Amboy, on Wedneſday the 19th of Auguſt next.

The Brigantine ——————, Capt. Savery, belonging to London, was cut off in March laſt on the coaſt of Africa, by the ſlaves, who killed the Captain and all the people, except a boy.

We hear from Gambia, that laſt ſummer it was ſo very ſickly there, that in Auguſt the Governor and every man of the garriſon, except the doctor, were dead.

JULY 9.

Extract of a Letter from Jamaica.

"St. LUCEA, (Jamaica) June 7, 1772:—We have had ſuch a deluge this week, that barrels of proviſions, and firkins of butter, with many other articles, were waſhed out of Lopez's and St. James's ſtores; it waſhed away one pillar of the wharfinger's houſe, and ſunk the middle of the ſtorehouſe roof. The ſtreet of Lucea was above three feet under water, which obliged (as I am informed) Edward Watkins, and ſome others of the inhabitants, to ſtand on their tables."

Extract of a Letter from Port-au-Prince, dated June 4, 1772.

"I juſt now heard of a ſloop belonging to Philadelphia, which has put into one of the ports in this iſland from the Main. It is reported the people have murdered the Captain, for the money he had on board. I cannot inform you of any particulars, as every one here tells a different ſtory about her."

Monday laſt arrived here, in fifteen days paſſage, Captain Thomas, from Cape Francois, who informs that a ſloop belonging to New-York, which had been run away with, was ſeized there by a perſon ſent from New-York in queſt of her. The pirate Captain had been put in goal, but found means to make his eſcape.——This is probably the ſloop mentioned above.

Extract of a Letter from Baltimore County, in Maryland, dated July 1, 1772.

"In our neighbourhood, at Mr. Paca's quarter, on Deer Creek, a Cow lately brought forth a Calf with a head repreſenting that of the human ſpecies; differing principally in the ſituation of the eyes and ears, the latter being on the neck, and the former on each ſide of the head where the ears ought to have been."

By Capt. Gilbert, from St. Vincents, we are informed, that on the 29th of May, his Majeſty's ſhip Falcon, Capt. Baines, arrived here with his Excellency William Leyborne Leyborne, Eſq; Captain-General and Governor in chief, &c. of the Southern Carribee iſlands of Grenada, the Grenadines, St. Vincent, and Tobago: His Excellency was waited upon on his arrival by a committee of the Hon. the Council and Aſſembly, appointed for that purpoſe, and received on his landing by his Majeſty's troops in garriſon there, alſo the ſouthern company of troops and ſouthern regiment of foot militia; and was ſaluted with the firing of guns from the different batteries. On the 30th, his Excellency's commiſſion was read in Council, and he was then pleaſed to iſſue a proclamation, for diſſolving the Aſſembly.——In conſequence of a writ iſſued by his Excellency General Leyborne, dated the 30th of May, on Thurſday the 4th of June, came on the election for two members to repreſent the town of Kingſtown, in the General Aſſembly; when, on cloſing the poll, John Keane and William Walker, Eſqrs. were declared to be duly elected.——At the ſame time, his Excellency General Leyborne was pleaſed to iſſue a proclamation directing, that all perſons poſſeſſed of commiſſions, granted by any former commander in chief, do deliver the ſame up to him on or before the 14th of June, in order to their receiving ſuch other commiſſions and authorities as his Majeſty has empowered his Excellency to grant.—Archibald Ingram, Eſq; his Majeſty's Receiver General of the Quit-Rents, &c. is by Royal Mandamus, admitted a member of the Hon. Council of ſaid iſland, in the room of the Hon. William Fitzhug, Eſq; reſigned.

Since our laſt ſeveral labouring people have died, by inadvertently drinking water directly from the pump, while they were very warm.

JULY 13.

Laſt Wedneſday Capt. Leaycraft, arrived here in three weeks from Saltortuga, at which place he left Capt. Mathelin, in a ſloop for New-York, who was to ſail about ten days after him. Capt. Leaycraft informs, that the Spaniſh guarda coſtas, having lately taken two or three Coraçoa men, who were trading on the Main, they had fitted out a ſtout ſloop, mounted with twelve carriage guns to go in ſearch of them, and it was ſaid ſhe had a ſmart ſkirmiſh with one of them, but the particulars were not come to hand when he ſailed.

Meſſrs. POWELL & HUGHES,

YOUR laſt Paper contained two very proper Obſervations; to which, 'tis to be hoped, all the Inhabitants, of Property eſpecially, in this opulent Town, ſo frequently expoſed to Alarms of Fire, will give more Attention than they generally have done; in order to prevent, or check, the terrible Deva[illegible] of that deſtructive Element, which often, in one Hour, for Want of a little Precaution, conſumes the accumulated Wealth of many Years painful Induſtry.

One was—the Difficulty of getting Water, altho' moſt of the Houſes there have Wells and Pumps belonging to them.

The other—That, of bringing Lookers-on to form LANES, where Water could be had.

The firſt may be eaſily remedied, by the Occupiers of the ſeveral Houſes giving themſelves the inconſiderable Trouble of being watchful that there is Water in their Wells, and their Pumps and Gier be always in Order. If there are Men who can be ſo regardleſs of their own or Neighbour's Security, as to neglect this, they deſerve to ſuffer, and ſhould be ſubject to ſevere Penalties.—I have attended at ſeveral Fires, where this has been a Complaint—in ſuch a Town as this is it not ſhameful?

To remedy the ſecond—we are told, that your worthy Fire-Maſters, have appointed four reputable active Inhabitants to attend each Engine. This Meaſure is much to be commended, and undoubtedly will be attended with good Effects: But, that it may be the more and ſooner ſo, as a Friend to this Town, I could wiſh, that they would make theſe Gentlemen known, by frequently drawing out the Engines, at ſtated Times, on ſome Signal of the great Bell, or otherwiſe, ſo as to train them and the Reſt of the People to this uſeful Service.

Many ſalutary Regulations are ſtill wanting, for the Prevention and Suppreſſion of Fires, only in the Power of the Legiſlature to eſtabliſh. If Repreſentation is not annihilated here, inſtruct the Repreſentatives of your Town properly, and let every Man in the mean Time, while the Liberty of the Preſs is yet enjoyed, freely convey ſuch Hints as may prove beneficial to the Community, thro' that Channel.

I will immediately avail myſelf of that Liberty, by aſking, Why is not the Enquiry made who are unprovided with Buckets and Ladders, as required by Law? and if there is a Deficiency any where, why are not the Delinquents fined?—and hope I ſhall incur no Cenſure, being a moſt hearty Well-wiſher to your Town, tho' A STRANGER.

A Freſh Parcel of Dr. KEYSER's famous PILLS, may be had of CHARLES CROUCH, at his Printing-Office in Elliott-ſtreet; and he really believes (without forcible making Uſe of the Word "PERHAPS") they are the only REAL ONES that can be had in the Province at preſent; notwithſtanding it is aſſerted (with a Degree of Scurrility) to the Contrary, in the latter Part of the Introduction to an Advertiſement for the Sale of Keyſer's Pills, by Powell, Hughes, & Co. in a Gazette of the 23d Inſtant, ſaid to be printed by theſe People. In Regard to the mean, raſcally Inſinuations againſt me, contained in ſaid Introduction, I am happy in knowing that they do not, nor cannot in the leaſt AFFECT me, eſpecially, as coming from ſuch Hands; yet, I think it would have been much more to their Credit, to have endeavoured to convince the Public, in a Manner different from what they did, that my Surmiſe was wrong, reſpecting the Pills ſold by them. And as to my good or bad Qualities, they are ſubmitted to the Candour and Impartiality of the reſpectable Public, whoſe Favours I ſhall always make my chief Study to merit; without fearing the Malice or Baſeneſs of any Individual.

(tbctf.) CHARLES CROUCH.

WHO, after peruſing the foregoing maſterly Piece, produced by a SINGLE Doſe of Dr. Keyſer's GENUINE Pills, ſold by POWELL, HUGHES, & Co. at the Printing-Office on the Bay, near the Exchange, can doubt of the amazing Effects of that powerful and invaluable Medicine?—After ſo copious a Diſcharge by ONE Doſe, what may not be expected from a SECOND, or ſhould THAT Patient take a WHOLE BOX?

In the mean Time, the Reader is deſired to correct TWO egregious Blunders, by inſerting, FORCIBLY for forcible, and THOSE PEOPLE inſtead of theſe People. The Word RASCALLY may ſtand, as ONE diſtinguiſhing Mark of the happy Talents and Abilities of the ingenious Author, as a ——————.

CHARLES-TOWN, JULY 30.

THE Cape-Fear Mercury, of the firſt Inſtant, tells us,—"Laſt Week paſſed through this Town, "in her Way to Charles-Town, a Lady who left "her Addreſs as follows: SOPHIA CARO-"LINA AUGUSTA, Princeſs of B——, "and Marchioneſs of Waldergrave."—Another Paragraph in the ſame Paper, ſays,—"Laſt Week arrived "here, in her Way to Charles-Town, a Lady of the firſt "Diſtinction, being no leſs, it is ſaid, than a German Princeſs, "though ſhe travels under the Title (being her loweſt) of "Marchioneſs of Waltongreve or Waldergrave.—This Lady "was truly incog. as ſhe had neither Carriages, Horſes, or At-"tendants." Some Remarks were added to the Paragraph, which we ſhall paſs over in Silence.

The Lady in Queſtion, it ſeems, has travelled over Land from Philadelphia.——She arrived in this Town the 7th Inſtant; it is ſaid ſhe intended here at her firſt leaving Europe; and has furniſhed abundant Employment for the naturally Curious and Inquiſitive, as well as the Ill-natured.——Amongſt other malevolent Suggeſtions, to prejudice this Lady, one is, That "ſhe "is the Daughter of the Pretender, by the celebrated Jenny "Cameron, and her Tour through America, made to ſolicit In-"tereſt in Behalf of her unhappy Father."

Mr. David Duncan, the unfortunate Perſon who was ſo much hurt in the Time of the Fire of the 17th Inſtant, is not dead—but in ſuch a melancholly Condition, that if he recovers, he will never be able to ſupport himſelf by his Buſineſs. The Inhabitants therefore, on a Subſcription being opened for his Relief, have contributed with their uſual Liberality.

It was not that notorious Felon Robert Prine, that lately killed Capt. Lazarus Brown. He was ſhot by one of his own Slaves, who has ſince been convicted and burnt alive.

Laſt Tueſday His Majeſty's Sloop Tamar, commanded by Charles Hay, Eſq; arrived here from Boſton, laſt from Virginia.

Lately married, at Philadelphia, Mr. Benjamin Cattell, of this Province, to Miſs Polly McCall, of that City.

The MEASLES, which, notwithſtanding the wholeſome Proviſions contained in an Act for preventing the ſpreading of malignant and contagious Diſtempers in this Province, paſſed in 1759, was introduced here from New-York, in March laſt, has lately proved, and ſtill continues, very mortal: And, unleſs that Act is more rigidly carried into Execution, in another Inſtance than it was in that, we may ſoon ſee ourſelves viſited with another Scourge from Philadelphia, where, we are informed the SMALL-POX is very rife.—We are always ſorry when our Duty compels us to throw out Hints ſeeming to imply Neglect or Inattention any where, or that may eventually affect the Intereſts of Individuals; but we muſt diſregard the Conſequences of giving Offence, where the Public Weal may be materially concerned by our Silence or too much Complaiſance, both which, in many Caſes would be unpardonable in public Printers.

Price of Rice and Indian Corn as in our laſt. Little or none of either for Sale.

 Monſ. DUVAL's Letter on the Liberal Arts, addreſſed to Mr. B—L, was (for Want of Room) obliged to be poſtponed 'till next Week.——Several Advertiſements were omitted on the ſame Account, but ſhall be inſerted in our next.

RICHES and GLORY, a Tale.

By the KING of PRUSSIA.

THE Miſer, my dear d'Argens, is chiefly his own enemy, but the ambitious man is the enemy of the human race. He ſtrides forward to vice with impunity, and even his virtues degenerate into faults. The miſer and the ambitious are both equally ſelf-intereſted; but, while one deſtroys only a cottage, the other, perhaps, overturns an empire.

Riches and Glory once made a journey together to this world, in order to try how mankind were diſpoſed to receive them. Heroes, citizens, prieſts, and lords, immediately liſted beneath their ſtandards, and received their favours with gratitude and rapture. Travelling, however, into a more remote part of the country, they by accident ſet up at the cottage of a ſimple ſhepherd, whoſe whole poſſeſſions were his flock, and all his ſolicitude the next day's ſubſiſtence. His birth was but humble, yet his natural endowments were great. His ſenſe was refined, his heart ſenſible of love and piety, and, poor as he was, he ſtill preſerved an honeſt ardour for liberty and reſt. Here, with his favourite Sylvana, his flock, his crook, and his cottage, he lived unknown, and unknowing a world that could only inſtruct him in deceit and falſhood.

Our two travellers no ſooner beheld him, than they were ſtruck with his felicity. "How inſupportable it is," cried Glory, "thus to be a ſpectator of pleaſures which we have no ſhare in producing? Shall we, who are adored here below, tamely continue ſpectators of a man who thus ſlights our favours, becauſe as yet unexperienced in their delights? No, rather let us attempt to ſeduce him from his wiſe purſuit of tranquility, and teach him to reverence our power!" Thus ſaying, they both, the better to diſguiſe themſelves, aſſumed the dreſs of ſhepherds, and accoſted the ruſtic in terms the moſt inviting. "Dear ſhepherd, how do I pity," cries Glory, "your poor ſimplicity! To ſee ſuch talents buried in unambitious retirement, certainly might create even the compaſſion of the Gods. Leave, ry'thee leave, a ſolitude deſigned only for ignorance and ſtupidity; it is doubly to die, to die without applauſe. You have virtues, and theſe ought to appear, not thus lie hid with ungrateful obſtinacy. Fortune calls, and Glory invites thee. I promiſe you a certainty of ſucceſs; you have only to chooſe whether to become an author, a miniſter of ſtate, or a General; in either capacity be ſure of finding reſpect, riches, and immortality."

At ſo unaccuſtomed an invitation, the ſhepherd ſeemed incapable of determining. He heſitated for ſome time between ambition and content, till at length the former prevailed, and he became, in ſome meaſure, a convert. Riches now came in to fix him entirely; and willing to make him completely the ſlave of both, thus continued the converſation, "Yes, ſimple vain, be convinced of your ignorance; learn from me in what true happineſs conſiſts. You are in indigence, and you miſtake your poverty temperance. What! ſhall a man, formed for the moſt important concerns, like you, exhauſt a precious life, only in obliging his miſtreſs, playing upon a pipe, or ſhearing his ſheep? While the reſt of mankind, bleſſed with affluence, conſecrate all their hours to rapture, improved with art, ſhall you remain in a cottage, perhaps ſhuddering at the winter's breeze? Alas! little doſt thou know of the pleaſures attending the rich! What voluptuous palaces they live in; how every time they leave them ſeems a triumphal proceſſion; how every word they pronounce is echoed with applauſe: Without fortune what is life but misery? what is virtue but ſullen ſatisfaction?—Money, money is the grand mover of the univerſe; without it life is inſipid, and talents contemptible."

The unhappy ſhepherd was no longer able to reſiſt ſuch powerful perſuaſions; his miſtreſs, his flock, are at once baniſhed from his thoughts, or contemptible in his eye. His rural retreat becomes taſteleſs, and ambition fills up every chaſm in his breaſt. In vain did the faithful partner of all his pleaſures and cares ſolicit his ſtay; in vain expoſe the numberleſs dangers he muſt neceſſarily encounter; nothing could perſuade a youthful mind bent on glory, and whoſe heart felt every paſſion in extreme. However, uncertain what courſe to follow, by chance he fixed upon the Muſes; and he began, by ſhewing the world ſome amazing inſtances of the ſublimity of his genius. He inſtantly found admiſſion among the men of wit, and he gave leſſons to thoſe who were candidates for the public favour. He publiſhed criticiſms, to ſhew that ſome were not born poets, and apologies in vindication of himſelf. But ſoon Satire attacked him with all its virulence; he found, in every brother wit, a rival, and in every rival, one ready to depreciate whatever he had written. Soon, therefore, he thought proper to quit this ſeducing train, that offer beds of roſes, but ſupply only a couch of thorns.

He next took the field in quality of a ſoldier. He was foremoſt in avenging the affronts of his country, and fixing his monarch on the throne; he was foremoſt in braving every danger, and in mounting every breach: With a few ſucceſſes more, and a few limbs leſs, our ſhepherd would have equalled Cæſar himſelf; but ſoon envy began to pluck the hard earned laurel from his brow: His conqueſts were attributed not to his ſuperior ſkill, but the ignorance of his rivals; his patriotiſm was judged to proceed from avarice, and his fortitude from unfeeling aſſurance.

Again, therefore, the ſhepherd changes, and in his own defence retired to the cabinet from the field. Here, become a thorough-bred miniſter of ſtate, he copies out conventions, mends treaties, raiſes ſubſidies, levies, diſpoſes, ſells, buys, and loſes his own peace, in procuring the peace of Europe; he even, with the induſtry of a miniſter, adopts his vices, and becomes ſlow, timid, ſuſpicious, and auſtere. Drunk with power, and involved in ſyſtem, he ſees, conſults, and likes none but himſelf. He is no longer the ſimple ſhepherd, whoſe thoughts were all honeſt, and who ſpoke nothing but what he thought; he is now taught only to ſpeak what he never intends to perform. His faults diſguſted ſome; his few remaining virtues more: At length, however, his ſyſtem fails; all his projects are blown up; what was the cauſe of misfortune was attributed to corruption and ignorance; he is arraigned by the people, and ſcarcely eſcapes being condemned to ſuffer an ignominious death. Now, too late, he finds the folly of having attended to the voice of Riches, or the call of Ambition. He flies back to his long-forſaken cottage; again aſſumes the ruſtic robe of innocence and ſimplicity; and, in the arms of his faithful Sylvana, paſſed the remainder of his life in innocence, happineſs, and peace.

Advice from a FATHER to a SON, going as a Writer to the EAST-INDIES.

THE Improvement you may make in your Fortune, though the reaſonable Object of our wiſhes, is by no Means what lies neareſt to my Heart.——If God Almighty ſhall be pleaſed to beſtow Riches upon you, with his Grace to uſe them properly, Wealth is doubtleſs then a Bleſſing—and may it be your Portion! But whether you are to be Rich in this World's Goods, or not, be fully aſſured, that there is a * Treaſure (vaſtly ſuperior even to the Diamond Mines of † Golconda) which ought to be your principal Purſuit, and if you fail therein, all your other Acquiſitions will be trifling and vain.——There is but one Way of ſecuring Happineſs, and that is, by preſerving always a Conſcience void of Offence towards God and towards Men: ——If your Duty towards God ſhould be forgotten, a due Senſe of what you owe to your Neighbour and yourſelf, can never be preſerved: And every Deviation from the Paths of Virtue and Religion is an unqueſtionable Departure from Happineſs.

* See Prov. Chap. xiii. Ver. 5.

† The Diamond Mines in the Kingdom of Golconda, are near to Matraſs or Fat St. George, as it is frequently called, from the Eaſt India Company's Fort there. This is deemed the Metropolis of their Settlements in India; and here the young Gentleman was by the Directors appointed to reſide.

SOUTH-CAROLINA.

By His Excellency the Right Honourable Lord CHARLES-GREVILLE MONTAGU, Captain-General, Governor, and Commander in Chief, in and over the ſaid Province, and Vice-Admiral of the ſame.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, by the Continuation of the Boundary Line between this Province and North-Carolina, which has lately been run, in Purſuance of His MAJESTY'S INSTRUCTIONS to the Governors of both Provinces, ſeveral Plantations which have been ſettled by Virtue of Grants from the Governor of North-Carolina, fall within this Government. IN ORDER to preſerve to the Proprietors of ſuch Grants, the equitable Right they have to the Lands mentioned therein, I DO, by the Advice of His Majeſty's Council, iſſue this my Proclamation; HEREBY STRICTLY FORBIDDING all the Deputy-Surveyors of this Province, from laying any Warrant on Lands for which Grants have been obtained in North-Carolina: AND notifying to all Perſons poſſeſſed of, or intitled unto, ſuch Grants, that they may have Grants for the ſame from this Government, on their producing ſuch Grants, without their perſonal Attendance at Charles-Town, provided Application is made for the ſame within twelve Months from the Date hereof.

GIVEN under my Hand, and the Great Seal of the ſaid Province, at Charles-Town, this Nineteenth Day of June, Anno Domini 1772, and in the Twelfth Year of His Majeſty's Reign.

Charles-Greville Montagu.

By His Excellency's Command,
THOMAS SKOTTOWE, Secretary.

Charles-Town, July 14, 1772.

THE Subſcriber is much obliged to his planting Friends, who, by landing their Crops at his Wharf for three Years paſt, have thereby introduced it to Buſineſs.—He acted as Factor during that Time, purely to prevent his Friends being Sufferers by their intended Kindneſs to him, as it was very induſtriouſly inſinuated, that Rice would not ſell at his Wharf: But as he is now well convinced, and flatters himſelf all his Friends are fully ſo too, that their Crops, landed in large or ſmall Parcels, will ſell altogether as well at his Wharf, as at any other in Charles-Town; and that any Gentlemen, principally concerned in the Factorage Way, will now have no Objection to receive and ſell Rice or Indico landed thereat: He therefore chooſes to decline that Buſineſs, finding it more than he is able to go through. He hopes his good Friends will ſtill land their Crops at his Wharf, where they may depend he ſhall take Care HIMSELF that their Boats have all poſſible Diſpatch.

As to the Safety and Conveniency of his Docks and Stores, he is ſure there are none preferable to them in Town in thoſe Reſpects, and few (if any) Barns in the Country are cooler and more ſecure from Fire; and it is almoſt impoſſible for a Barrel of Rice to be ſtolen in landing or ſhipping at his Wharf. Such Gentlemen as uſe his Wharf conſtantly, may depend on never wanting Storage whenever they do not like the going Price:—No prudent Planter but muſt be convinced, that this is a Matter of the utmoſt Conſequence to him, as many, for theſe three Years paſt, have had their Crops (when landed in Town) diſpoſed of very much againſt their own Inclinations and Judgments, merely for Want of Storage; and this he is ſure has been the Caſe, particularly this Year ſeveral Times, notwithſtanding the Shortneſs of the Crop.

Meſſrs. GIBBES & HORT,

Who have had long Experience in the FACTORAGE BUSINESS in all its Branches, and confine themſelves to that only, have taken the Charge of his Scales, and will tranſact their Buſineſs on his Wharf.—To theſe Gentlemen he begs Leave to recommend ſuch of his Friends who are not otherwiſe engaged.

Chriſtopher Gadſden.

N. B. Any Gentlemen in Trade may depend on not wanting STORAGE for ſuch Parcels of Rice as they purchaſe at his Wharf.

Charles-Town, South-Carolina, July 23, 1772.

IT would afford the Subſcriber great Satisfaction, if three or four Perſons, well experienced in the INDICO BUSINESS, would undertake the Sorting and Garbling of Indico for Exportation; by which Means that valuable Produce might recover its Reputation both at Home and at Foreign Markets.—If Perſons properly qualified are not to be found in this Province, there is yet ſufficient Time to ſend for them from England, as it will not ſuit him to inſpect any Indico, of the approaching Crop, but for the under-mentioned Gentlemen; who can furniſh him with as much Indico as he ſhall be able to attend to; nor will he deſire more from them than his cuſtomary Fee of Two Dollars per Hundred Weight; and he makes not the leaſt Doubt, but that the Indico inſpected by him, will continue to have the Preference with the principal Purchaſers at Home, from Six Pence to Nine Pence Sterling per Pound, to any other Indico ſhipped from this Province, and meet with immediate Sale on Arrival—a Fact ſo well known, as to need no further Explanation from
